Carefully Selecting New Jokes and Honga, Fifty bright young women, all members of the Toung Ladies' Charitable Society, gathered in hall to East Fifty-eighth street yesterday gorning to rehearse for a minstrel performance her are going to give in the Lexington Avenue Opera House on Jan. 31. There is nothing novel bout the rehearsal of a professional theatrica geope, but when a lot of young women who egether, with no one to keep them in order or ptell them what to do save a couple of actors shore stage experience has been limited to the semmuous performance circuit, there is no tellag what will happen. At yesterday's rehearsaland those in charge said it was a very tame se the air was full of suggestions, objections, and comment from the time the rooms were thrown open for the young women until the morning's work was over.

After divesting themselves of mackintoshes. cats, bats, and umbrellas, the performers panged themselves in the old familiar semicircle. There were two coaches, one a stout potth with flowing raven locks, who was there strain the young women in the use of negredialect. The other was a slender young man who incessantly scraped a violin, and who told the planist that he didn't know his business. Well, ladies, are you all ready?" cried the violinist, when the young women were comforta-

"Yes," came from all sides, and then the young woman who sat in the centre, and was apposed to be the interlocutor, spoke un: "Oh, just let's sing this morning, and take the tokes and business some other time."

Ob, no," cried a young woman who had been fondling a tambourine. "Let's have the jokes to-day and sing some other time,"

We'll go through the entire performance," said the violinist, and although many side remarks such as "He needn't be so rough," were made, that settled it, and hours the rehearsal went After a few pathetic jokes, cracked in siano, and a little woman jumped from her chair, and with stately grace walked out into the middle of the floor. Six other young women followed her and joined in the chorus of "Tommy Atkins" after she had sing the verse The young man with the violin either did or women sing the song several times before they mark to his fellow coacher which no one could hear, but which the young woman who had een the chief singer imagined reflected on her ability, for she leaned over to the interlocutor and said: "If I thought he was saying any thing about my song, I'd, I'd-well, I'd make

"Ob. don't mind him," said the interiocutor, and then in awed tones she went on: "He's a professional, you know; a real actor."

"Stop your talking, ladies," put in the stout young man. "Your gang there, miss."

"Sir," exclaimed the interlocutor, drawing herself up. "My gang? I don't understand you."

"I meant joke," said the young man apoingstically. "You see, it's your turn to talk. Now, after the tambo on the end has made her joke, you turn and look toward the other side, and then those three bones on the end happened to be uncommonly thin, and about two seconds after the stout young man had made his remark they were on their feet and demanding to know what he meant. With much embarrassment he explained that he had given then that this from the instrument they were to play.

"Oh," came from all sides, "that was it," and for ten minutes the rehearsal had to be stopped to give the girls an opportunity to talk it over. "Lat's practise the Seely joke now," said the interlocutor to the stout young man. "it's a new one we girls got up, and, of course, if you don't like it, why we'll cut it."

"Oh, let it go, said the young man, impatiently. Then one of the end meu spoke up:

"Now why, oh, dear I mean, what, was the matter with Seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather Bank?"

"What was the matter with Seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather hank? Now, what was the matter with seely the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather hank? Now, what was the matter with seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather bank? Now, what was the matter with seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather Bank? Now, what was the matter with seely, the bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather Bank? Now, what was the matter with seely the power and whispered to the futury girl, "I don't see the point," failered the stout young man, while one of the young women leaned over and whispered to the futury girl, "Oh, Bertha, what a joke."

"I's not a bed joke," cried the young women leaned over and whispered to the futury girl, "Oh, Bertha, wh "Ob, don't mind him," said the interiocutor,

"Eve got a new one, and it's awful good," excisimed one of the young women on the other end. The stout young man greaned, and faintly murnored: "Go on."

"Why am I like oh, I ought to explain here; you know my face is supposed to be blackened."

"Yes, yes, go on," said the violinist.

"Well, why am I like an Irishman?"

"Why are you like an Irishman?" repeated the interiocutor. "Well, really, I don't know. Now why are you like an Irishman?"

"Because I am in cork," said the young woman, and in pointing her finger to her face to heighten the effect of the joke, she jabbed it in her eye. A dead allence followed, and was broken by a crush from behind. The girls jumped up in alarm and looked around in time to see the planist getting up from the floor.

"Please don't do anything like flast again," he sighed.

"Nuff damage done," he said, "I understand some one's got a new song. Let's hear it."

"Oh, it's L." said a girl, springing up from her thair and spilling her tambourine in her haste.

"It's just a lovely one, too. A friend of mine who writes for the newspapers wrote it, and..."

"Sing it," put in the young man with the violin. The young woman began singing to the air of "Take a Day Off. Mary Ann." The chorus

"I think I will cut that out," said the violinist, and the young woman retreated to her seat, where she remarked to the girl next to her that it was a shame not to give the song a chance.

"He's such a clever young man, too," she said, meaning her friend, the author.

"Why, by taking her to a policy shop and giv-ing her the slip," said the girl.

The plane piayer rudely struck up the Chopin Paneral March, and some of the other girls pre-budget in why.

Funeral March, and some of the other girls pre-bunded to sob.

When the girls had recovered there was some more staring, and very good singing it was. A talk stender girl with the real negro walk, sang about "lira Jackson's Heau of Company R." in a way which would have done Dorothy Drew leather, and another gave some of May Irwin's bet soars in fitting style.

At the performance on Jan. 31 the young wamen will wear contained copied from the uni-forms of the Seventh, Twelfth, and Iwenty-should regiments. Some will wear bloomers and others short skirts, and all will have their laces bloodened. Meantime they will rehearse such Sunday morning.

Andrew B. Martin, ex-Commissioner of Acsunts, who is engaged in an exhaustive examnation of the accounts in County Treasurer Adams's office, in which there is an alleged shorage of over $80,000, will not have his resert ready for a couple of weeks. He challenges pert resaly for a couple of weeks. He challenges the correctness of the report of the expert acceptants employed by the Board of Supervisors setting forth the big shortage, and says that Mr. Adams will come out of the investigation as clean as a whatie. Mr. Martin admits that there is some shortage, but contends that it will be much smaller than has been represented and that it will be satisfactorily explained. He alleges that exertines were made to him by one of the supervisors and one of the expert accountants to complete with them in the overnauling of the accounts and, if possible reach the same include.

Atgustus Mackenzie, general manager of the on River Steambout Company, is the deledant in a suit for separation brought by Mary Sackenzie in the Supreme Cours in Brooklyn. The suit is based upon alleged ill-treatment. Mrs. Macannie says that she has frequently been bestern by her husband, and that on Christmas ere knives, bottles, and chairs were kurled at her. Her husband, she says, has an income of $20,000, and she wants $100 a week alimony and $1,000 counsel fee.

DR. M'GLYNN IN HIS NEW PULPIT.

The Church Crowded-A Sermon Appropriate to the Festival of the Epiphany. Newmings, Jan. 6.-The Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn entered this morning upon the full discharge of his priestly duties here. Although the weather was bad and walking worse, the rain having frozen on the sidewalks, St. Mary's Church was crowded to overflowing. The morning service consisted of the celebration of a sol emn high mass, with Dr. McGlynn as celebrant, the flev. Father O'Keefe of Highland Falls and West Point as deacon, and the Rev. Father Mc-Avoy of Fishkill as sab-deacon. The Rev. Father O'Connell of St. Mary's was master of eremonies. Dr. McGlynn preached the surmon, which was appropriate to the festival of the Epiphany and contained no references to the recent disputes in the Catholic Church. His text was taken from the second chapter of Matthew, which tells of the visit of the wise men to the infant Christ and their gifts to Him, and also from the sixtieth chapter of Isalah.

Dr. McGlynn said that this festival commenrated the breaking down of the barriers that had separated men from men in days when they had strangely forgotten the common brotherhood of men and of the common fatherhood of God. The symbolic meaning of the gifts offered by the wise men was strongly brought out by the presence, and the lessons for the believer in these days inculcated.

At the close of the sermon Dr. McGlynn said that he had the very great happiness of being appointed by the Archbishop as paster of St. Mary's parish, to succeed their beloved pastor, appoinned by the Archbishop as paster of St. Mary's parish, to succeed their beloved paster. Father Henry, who had been called to an important charge in New York city.

"I have entered," he said, "upon this charge with no little diffidence, because the burden of souls is always very great. It is no small matter to be charged as a shepherd with the care of some thousands of souls. The man who should not feel the burden was entirely unfitted to bear it. I ask your prayers that I may bear it the better; that I may be directed, inspired, and strengthened to teach you the truth of God; that i may do at least a little to preach, by word as well as by example; and I beg that you will cooperate with the good work of the church by listening with doellity to the teachings of the Master, whose teachings we preach to you; by coming frequently and regularly and diligently to receive the ministrations of the Church, the holy sacrament; to come to worship, to pray, to partake even of the spiritual joy that so often are here to be found, as nowhere else, close to the holy altar of God. Let us all, pastor, priests, and people, ask God to make us endexyor so to preach, so to teach, to believe, think, speak, waik, do, that our lives may live godly, soberly, and piously in this world. "After the services a reporter of the United Press had an interview with Dr. McGlyna, and asked him this question:

"What about the stories that have been published to the effect that your restoration to work in the Diocese of New York was the result of a recantation?"

"They are absolutely false," Dr. McGlyna rein the Diocese of New York was the result of a recantation?"

"They are absolutely false," Dr. McGlynn replied. "There has been no recantation whatever, for the excellent reason that Mgr. Satolli, in restoring me two years ago, declared that there was nothing to recant. And he has since, numely, last May, publicly declared through the United Press that it was found that Dr. McGlynn had said and done nothing wrong.

Dr. McGlynn said that he was delighted with the parish and the people of St. Mary's. Father Henry, his predecessor, had left the parish financially and in every other respect in admirable condition.

Dr. McGiynn's theme in the evening was on he "Work of the Christian Priesthood." POLICEMAN HEAPHY BURIED.

Coroner O'Mengher Nays He Did Not Die

An antopsy was performed yesterday morning by Coroner O'Meagher upon the body of Policeman William Heaphy, who died on Friday in Gouverneur Hospital, and whose death was reported by House Surgeon Kelly as the result of "delirium tremens following scalp wound." Dr. Nichols of East Broadway, who was called in by Alderman Clancy, was present at the oper-ation. It was found that Heaphy's death was due to concussion of the brain caused by a pistol shot wound, and a certificate to that effect was given by Coroner O'Meagher. Coroner O'Meagher said that if there had been delirium it was traumatic, or due to the wound,

The funeral of the dead policeman took place yesterday afternoon from his residence, 315 Delancey street. Although the rain was falling in sheets, the street was blocked for nearly an hour.

About thirty policemen were there and four of their number acted as pall bearers. The Wilhiam Clancy Club sent a pillow and cross of roses, and the policemen of the Madison street station brought an anchor of vicelets. Before the coffin was removed from the house it was carried into the room of Mrs. Heaply, who lies ill of an incurable malady. She was so weak from sickness and the shock of her husband's death that she was upable to sit up for a final look at the remains. Several friends raised her and supported her while she kissed the lips of the dead man.

and supported her while she kissed the lips of the dead man.

In the procession which accompanied the hearse to the Grand street ferry there were nearly forty carriages and at least 500 people walking two by two. The rain fell heavily all the time. Alderman William Clancy is still very indignant about the report House Surgeon Kelly made on Heaphy's death. "I cannot imagine what led bim to mention delirium tremeas in connection with Heaphy," he said. "There was some talk of Dr. Kelly's having a grudre against Heapily on account of a spat they once had in the Madison street station over an ambulance call which the policeman sent in, but what there was of it I do not know. At any rate, it was a terrible mistake to make, and the matter should not be dropped."

Less than twenty hours before Heaphy died he sent the following note to a friend:

Fright John. Tell limit to send me a suit of under-PRIEST JOHN: Tell Lizzie to send me a suit of under-wear, a handkerchief, two papers of tobacco, and a bottle of claret wise. P. S.—It is likely I will be able to go out this week. Ww.

FOR SUNDAY POOL PLAYING. fastice Taintor Holds Nine Toung Mea for Trini in $100 Ball, Harris Sammansky is the owner of a pool and dlliard parlor at 168 Eighth avenue. Yesterday morning, about 12:30 o'clock, the police raided the place and arrested Sammansky and nine of his customers, the latter young men ranging in age from 18 to 24 years. They were nght to Jefferson Market Police Court later yesterday, and gave their names and addresses as follows: Jacob Lowenstein of 112 Eighth avenue; Christian Faulhauber, 326 West Fifteenth street; Frank Whitcomb, 227 West Sixteenth street; Frank Whitcomb, 227 West Sixteenth street; Harry Lawyer, 227 West Eighteenth street; John Alliaon, 253 West Sixteenth street; H. T. Halpin, 253 West Nineteenth street; William Robertson, 417 West Eighteenth street; Frank Bennett, 110 West Seventeenth street, and Samuel Wiley, 417 West Eighteenth street.

When they were arraigned before Justice Taintorthey all said they were not playing pool or billiards at the time the police raided the place. The Justice held each one of them in $100 ball for trial, and the proprietor, Sammansky, in $300 ball. As they were being led away to prison, Sammansky stepped up before the Judge and sold:

"I don't think it's fair to hold those young men, your Honor, Besidea, there were two other young men arrested, who were not brought to court."

"Who were they?" inquired Justice Taintor.

Court."

"Who were they?" inquired Justice Taintor.

"One was Judge Hogan's son and the other was John O'Connor," answered Sammansky.

"Fil reduce your ball to $100." said the Judge.
This was the only action he took in regard to Sammansky's statement.

Entirely Too Giddy for Mr. Polan.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Jan. 6.-William Polan, 71 years old, of Washington street expected to be married last night to May Brown, who is fifty years younger than he, but a few hours before the time set for the ceremony he announced to his friends that there would be no welding. Polan has been a widower for more than a year. Polan has been a widower for more than a year. He met Miss Brown last spring, and was favorably impress by the young woman. She did not receive his suit with favor at first, but finally she accepted him, and everything went on smoothly until a few days ago.

Last night, in declaring the match off, Polan said that he had given Miss Brown two dresses and some money to buy household goods. She spent the money for her own piesaure, and accompanied a younger man to a party wearing one of the dresses Polan had given her. He said she was entirely too ciddy for him, and he had decided not to marry her.

Miss Brown did not seem cast down by this decision.

Pastor Van Cleef's Forty-fifth Anniversary. The Rev. Dr. Paul D. Van Cleef, the paster of the Wayne Street Reformed Church in Jersey City, preached his forty-fifth anniversary sermon yesterday morning. There are not many members of the church now who were there when he assumed the pastorate. Notwithstanding the storm the church was well filled. Dr. Van Cleef gave a brief history of the church and spoke of the success which had always attended it when other churches became embarrassed because of the tendency of people living in the lower part of the city to take up their residence on the hill. The aged minister held a reception after the pervices and was warmly congratulated by the numbers of his flock.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HOME

DEDICATION OF THE "FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST."

A Notable Religious Event in Roston-A.
Structure Costing $2:0.000 Bevoted to the New Heating Propaganda-Its Plan. Bosros, Jan. 6 .- Christian Scientists from vafous parts of the United States were present to-day at the dedication of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Falmonth street, to-day. The greater part of the gathering consisted of romes. A large number of boys and girls who had contributed for the furnishing of the "Mother's Room" took front seats in the auditorium at the 10:30 service.

The dedication was simple. It included an organ voluntary, singing of hymns, two of which were written by the "Mother Rev." Mary Baker Eddy: the reading of the Scriptures, with extracts from "Science and Health, the Key to the Scriptures." Mrs. Henrietta Clarke Bemis of Allston read the sermon written by the mother paster. There were four services, at 9 o'clock, 10:50, 12, and 3 P. M. There were probably 6,600 person a in attendance at the services.

PERST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, At 9 o'clock the chimes rang out these tunes, the words of which were composed by Mrs. Eddy: "Christ My Refuge," "Saw Ye My Saviour ?" and "Shepherd, Show Me How to Go." The most important part of the services was the reading of Mrs. Eddy's address and selections from the Bible and "Science and Health," To emphasize the impersonal pature of the service, Mrs. Eddy announced her intention of being absent on the occasion, and sent a communication ordaining the Bible and "Science and Health" as the rightful pastor of the church.

Mrs. Eddy is regarded as the sole discoverer of Christian Science. It has grown to the extent of representation in every State and in every city of importance in the Union and in Canada, and it has extended its influence as far north as Norway and as far south as Greece and Australia. The local church in Boston is estimated to have not less than 3,000 members. Two hundred thousand followers are said to hold services in the branch churches of the denomination. and half a million persons, the Scientists assert. stand ready to testify of marvellous healing through the understanding of Christian Science.

In testimonial of their gratitude to its found-er, the followers of Mrs. Eddy have contributed In testimonial of their gratitude to its founder, the followers of Mrs. Eddy have contributed to the building of the commodious church which was dedicated to-day. The ground edifice, and its equipment are valued at $250,000. The distinctive features of the church, apart from the religion it embodies, are the stained glass windows. The fact of thoroughly fireproof construction and the unusually solid foundation make it a notable structure of itself, more granite being used in its base below the street than in the structure above. The church is constructed on a kite-chaped plot of ground, and presents at night three sets of illumined windows. The central window in the tower, and that which first meets the eye, represents a weeman pondering the Scriptures by candle light. It is entitled, "Seeking and Finding." Above it is the seal of the denomination. "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, cast out demons, raise the dend." in lettering around a cross and crown. This window is in the Mother's Room in the second story of the tower. Beneath the central window in lettering on a smooth tablet is this inscription:

"The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Erected Anno Domini 1894. A Testimonial to Our Beloved Teacher, the Reverend Mary Baker Eddy: Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science: Author of Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures: President of the Massachusetts Metaphysical College, and the First Pastor of This Denomination."

The matorials insell in the exterior of the church are Concord blue granite with rimmings of French pond pink granite. The architectural design is Romanesque. The tower is turreted and further embellished with a balustrade. On the left side of the building is a stairway. There are four portices with balustrades polished columns, and torches in bronne in each. The tower rises 121 feet 6 inches and is 21 feet 6 inches square. Its upper story contains a melodious peal of fifteen Chimas. All the sup-are four porticos, with balustrades, polished columas, and torches in bronze in each.

The tower rises 121 feet 6 inches and is 21 feet 6 inches square. Its upper story contains a melodious peal of fitteen chames. All the supports of the building are steel beams and the walls are filled in with concrets. The floors are mosaic, white and pale green in tone, with designs of fig leaves and fruit. The stairs of fron are furnished with rose marble: the gallery floor, the choir loft, and even the pulpit are all of the same fireproof materials. The interior decoration is unique, the pervading tone being a delicate rose, but so shaded as to graduate through eight lints from the apex of the dome to the floor. The dados are mosaic, with ornamental frieses. All the color effects in the church range from creme, pale green, and gold to eight or ten shales of rose pink.

The auditorium or body proper of the church will seat 1,500 people. It is so constructed that every one shall be within fifty feet of the pulpit.
Around it in the second story runs a gallery identical in finish with the fireproof construction and decoration of the building. The platform occupies one full side of the auditorium at the rear. Upon it are the pulpit and directors' seat. Back of and above the platform is the choir loft containing an organ valued at $10,000, the gift of a Scientist, is testimony of his thanks over the healing of his wife. The pews are manufactured from curly birch and are upholstered in rose plush.
These, with a few unimportant parts of the building, are alone of wood. In a large skylight is a magnificent onalescent glass sunburst veiling 144 electric lights. The central design is a serve-pointed star.

Decidedly the most novel feature of the church is the second story of the tower, devoted to the Mother's room. A wide vestibule and a fight of three steps lead to it from the auditorium. The room is decorated in white, pale green onyx fireplace and mantel. It is the gift of several thousand little chindren known as

which came from Athens, will be kept burning night and day.

On the ground floor of the church is a com-mittee room, surrounded by six class rooms. The doors are constructed so as to be lifted like the sash of a window, throwing the seven rooms into one. On this floor is also the directors' room, with adjacent archives and vaults.

WHERE'S BENJAMIN KAISER?

Left Town Three Weeks Ago Nearly and Nothing Has Been Heard of Him, Benjamin Kaiser, a well-to-do Hebrew of 216

Henry street, who is in the clothing business at 280 and 282 Madison street, left his home on the morning of Dec. 19 to go to Troy on business and has not been heard of since. Kaiser has a wife, three sons, and two daughters living in Henry street, and a married daughter in Bos-ton. When he left home he took no baggage, and told his wife he expected to be gone but a week and would write her of his arrival in Troy. week and would write her of his arrival in Troy. When no word came to Mrs. Kaiser she suppased he had gone on to Boston to see his daughter, or possibly gone to Albuquerque, N. M., to see his father, but such is not the case, and Mrs. Kaiser fears her husband has met with foul play. He had about $800 with him when he went away, and he left a small balance in bank. So far as is known Kaiser has no enounles, and his business is in a prosperous condition. Kaiser wears a full beard, is about $5 years old, 6 feet tail, and weight over 200 pounds. When he went away he wore a gray cutaway coat and dark trousers, a light checked cape overcoat, and hisck derby hat. He is a Mason and wears a large enfulem on a finger rung.

Mrs. Kaiser said last hight:

"I am quite sure my husband went to Troy, as a friend gave him a railroad ticket to that place. I cannot understand why I have not heard from him. He was very cheerful when he went away and promised to return in a week. I fear he has uncountered some great trouble."

Pearline—the only Washing Compound ever imitated. STRUCK WITH AN IRON BAR.

Matthew Heakins Was Assaulted by Tramp or Possibly by His Own Son. John Hankins, aged 23, was arrested at 1 o'clock yesterday morning in Newark and locked up at Police Headquarters in that city. charged with assault and battery upon his father, Matthew Hankins, a truck farmer living at the lower end of New Jersey Railroad av enne. Early last spring the elder Hankins, who lived in the farmhouse with his son and daugh-ter, took in a tramp for whom young Hankins ter, took in a tramp for whom young Hankins formed a close friendship, and for whom the daughter showed a strong and apparently unreasonable aversion.

Early one morning in June the daughter heard a scuffic, a blow, and a fail in her father's room, followed by groans. She did not dare to leave her room, but did the next best thing. She opened a window and shouted for help. Two policemen ran to the house and caught the young farm hand as he jumped from a window. He was taken to the room where Matthew Hankins was lying upon the floor bleeding from a scalp wound made with an iron bar.

Young Hankins was up and dressed, but he took no interest in his rather, and showed no indignation toward the prisoner, who subsequently was sent to jail. It was conjectured that the son was an accomplice in the assault. The young man disappeared, and a warrant was drawn up for his arrest. He was not seen in Newark until yesterday morning, when Patroiman Daniel Leary found him in Fair street. He was committed for trial. His father fully recovered from his injuries.

Fell from a High Wall and Was Killed. John Covey, a machinist, 23 years old, who boarded at 288 Berry street, Williamsburgh, was killed yesterday morning by falling from a wall of Havemeyer's sugar refinery in South Third street, near Kent avenue. He fell thirty feet. He wanted to go from one building to another, and, instead of crossing the slippery roof over the engine room, he walked along the edge of the wall. He slipped on the lee and fell headlong to the street, being instantly killed.
